Private Matters

Any disagreement can be stressful but we recognise that family disputes are the most stressful of all disputes with which we are faced. Family law disputes should be dealt with in such a way to preserve people's dignity and to encourage agreement. Experience shows that agreed solutions are much more likely to work in the long term than any arrangements imposed by a court. If a family has to resort to the Court to resolve their dispute, any such proceedings should be conducted in a constructive and realistic way to minimise conflict and distress. When a relationship breaks down there are many issues to be resolved. We can deal with all the matters in a sensitive and constructive manner. In the majority of cases we would hope to resolve matters by negotiation. Some cases may be suitable for Mediation. If an application to the Court is required we would advise you in relation to Court procedures and represent you at Court. Our team of Family Solicitors have a wealth of experience in this area of the Law and include members of Resolution and the Law Society's Family Law Panel.

Legal Aid

In some cases we can Offer financial assistance from the Legal Aid Agency subject to individual circumstances. We can advise you in relation to free legal advice, which is available automatically in some cases, and in others, subject to financial means.

Fixed Fees

We offer fixed fees for uncontested divorce cases and are happy to discuss payment options for initial advice, attendances at Court and drafting Court documents.
